1. In response to your instructions contained in Reference B., the Office of Training in cooperation with the War Plans Staff/DDP conducted a survey of the value of Project [REDACTED]. The War Plans 25X1A2g Staff directed its effort toward the Clandestine Services and the Military Services and will furnish a separate report on the results of their survey.

2. The Office of Training conducted a survey of the Directorates of Intelligence, Support, and Science and Technology with the following results:

25X1A2g

a. The Directorate for Intelligence indicated that Project [REDACTED] contributes little to the furtherance of the over-all liaison already established with the military departments.
The course adds to the already heavy demands on the time of the senior personnel but if the program benefits other elements of the Agency, they are willing to continue to support future presentations.

b. The Directorate for Science and Technology's response 25X1A2g was similar to the DDI. They do not feel Project [REDACTED] aids appreciably in the extensive and varied joint or cooperative ventures in which they are engaged with the military services. The respondent suggested that the program be shortened and assured participation if it is decided that the program is of value to the Agency.

25X1A2g c. The Directorate of Support offices stated it is their opinion that Project [REDACTED] is of primary value to the DDP and that they must take their lead from the DDP. The Support offices derive very little direct results from the program; however, they would support the program if the DDP decides it is of value. Those offices which carry on liaison with components of the military brief their contacts on an individual "need-to-know" basis. The Office of Training views Project [REDACTED] as one of its many requirements from the Clandestine Services and fulfills its regular role in the support thereof in presenting the course as directed.
